

Namaqualand

Namaqualand in South Africa is known as the "Gem of the Northern Cape." Portions of this area were turned into a national park in 1999, to preserve the abundant wildlife and brilliant wildflowers native to the area.

Landsat 7 data acquired 8/23/2000

1" = 1.9 miles (3.1 km)

