

BUSINESS PROCESS OUTSOURCING

The rise of globalization and advancements in communication technology have been key drivers of the Business Process Outsourcing Industry, creating new growth opportunities especially for developing countries.

It allowed companies in the developed markets to manage costs and move part of the work to offshore sites in the Global South where human resource payables were lower.

As a result, the global BPO industry has maintained an upward trajectory and was estimated to be worth over $268 billion in 2021 and continue increasing at a compound annual growth rate of 8.9% until 2030.<sup>1</sup>

While European and American markets have traditionally accounted for the lion's share of the global BP industry, the Asia Pacific region has lately registered impressive growth. This trend was further accelerated by the onset of coronavirus, which led to substantial gains for leading offshore players, as evidenced by their impressive financial results.<sup>2</sup>

Though cost-cutting is generally the most important factor in terms of offshoring decisions, with almost three fifths of the business citing as such,<sup>3</sup> it can also help companies manage human resource shortages more effectively, which are a major headache for IT companies in particular.<sup>4</sup>

The BPO Opportunity for Pakistan

As the fifth largest country with considerable labor cost advantages, Pakistan is naturally positioned to benefit from the uptake in global offshoring activity. A number of fundamentals make the country well-placed to grab a larger share of the market.

For example, the sector has more than 300,000 English-speaking professionals while leading companies such as Teradata and VMware already have established BPO centers here.

Lately, the country's BPO industry has shown major signs of progress. For example, Pakistan's performance on AT Kearney's Global Services Location Index – which measures and compares the factors that make countries attractive as potential locations for offshore services – as its rank improved from 37 in 2017 to 31 in 2021 – recording a healthy upward movement of six notches.

This was complemented by an increase in the score from 5.09 to 5.36 during the period under review.

Zooming in, Pakistan scored the highest on the financial attractiveness sub-index with a value of 2.90 – putting it second in the 60-member list ahead of all benchmark states and only behind Sri Lanka.<sup>5</sup>

This goes simultaneously with continuous growth in the BPO industry, particularly in the technology sector. Though specific numbers aren't available, the export of IT and Telecom services can serve as a good proxy and show the momentum is picking up. Pakistan's overall IT and Telecom export proceeds have been on a steep upward trajectory - crossing $2.6 billion in FY22.

Of these, call center exports crossed the $200 million mark for the first time and clocked in at $215 million while proceeds from software consultancy services approached $800 million in FY22.

Combined, these two have increased at a compound annual growth rate of 20.9% since FY18 to reach $1 billion in the outgoing fiscal year. Beyond IT too, there exists the immense opportunity in offering offshore services.

For example, Pakistan's footprint in "other business services" - which includes research and development, management consulting, accounting, and advertising - is also expanding, realizing exports of $1.64 billion in FY22
